

ANDY WILLIAMS: GREATEST LOVE SONGS Premieres on PBS Stations Beginning November 28

– The Romantic Crooner’s Biggest Hits & Best-Loved Ballads –

The warm and welcoming singer Andy Williams enjoyed a hugely successful career that lasted over half a century. He hosted a long-running television variety show and bridged the generations with classic standards from the Great American Songbook to pop songs of the 1960s and '70s. This My Music special presents the romantic crooner's biggest hits in colorful, full-length performances not seen in decades along with previously unaired recollections from Andy as well as remembrances from Petula Clark, Michael Feinstein, Donny Osmond, The Lennon Sisters and Pat Boone. Among the favorites included are “Love Story (Where Do I Begin),” “Can't Get Used To Losing You,” “Butterfly” and “Moon River.” ANDY WILLIAMS: GREATEST LOVE SONGS begins airing as a PBS fund-raising special the week of Saturday, November 28

with multiple airings. (check local listings).
